In 2021, NIKKISO has been selected as a supplier to provide component parts for the eVTOL being developed by Joby.

Since then, NIKKISO has been working together with Joby, for a successful industrialization of the project, including hands on operational and engineering training at each other's site.

Nikkiso has experience in design and mass production of composite parts for commercial aircraft over the past 40 years.

The components are CFRP structural parts used in Joby's eVTOL aircraft, which utilizes the knowledge and experience NIKKISO has accumulated over the past 40 years.

Joby is the leading company in the eVTOL market, and is scheduled to begin commercial operation in 2025. In order to meet the expectation of the growing demand and to support the milestones to launch the VTOL service into the society, NIKKISO will continue to enhance their capabilities to achieve the goal of expanding their business portfolio.
